

OCEAN SAFETY EXPANDS THEIR INTEREST IN THE RNLI'S AMBASSADOR SCHEME

Ocean Safety has recently signed up to support the RNLI's Ambassador Scheme. This means that anyone purchasing certain safety equipment from Ocean Safety, such as an Ocean ISO liferaft, a Kannad EPIRB or a Jonbuoy Recovery Module, will receive a year's introductory RNLI Offshore membership.

Ocean Safety's continued support and Ambassador expansion now includes liferaft servicing, so when bringing a raft into any one of the three Ocean Safety servicing depots, in Southampton, Plymouth or Glasgow for a full service, a year's introductory RNLI Offshore membership will be included. Regular servicing is key to ensuring that life saving equipment will work when deployed and it is with this in mind, that Ocean Safety has decided to strengthen their involvement with the RNLI.

Richard Devereux, RNLI Leisure Marine Marketing Manager, said, 'As a charity, we rely on donations to fund the lifesaving work of our volunteer crews and I'd like to thank Ocean Safety for their continued and renewed support. By signing up to give regular donations, RNLI members provide us with a reliable form of financial support that allows us to continue to save lives at sea and plan for the future. I'm very grateful to Ocean Safety, who have helped us recruit more regular supporters over the last few years and look forward to continue working closely with them in their role as Ambassadors for the RNLI in the future.'

Charlie Mill of Ocean Safety added, "We are delighted to strengthen our support of the RNLI Offshore membership, by adding liferaft servicing into our agreement with the RNLI. We regularly see liferafts in a bad state of repair and cannot emphasise enough the importance of regular servicing at an authorised station.
